The Cervantes Group Announces Strategic Partnership with Cyera to Strengthen AI-Powered Data Security

The Cervantes Group has announced a strategic partnership with Cyera, a global leader in Data Security Posture Management (DSPM), to help organizations strengthen data security, reduce risk, and unlock the full value of their data through AI-powered insights.

This collaboration combines The Cervantes Group's expertise in IT consulting and digital transformation with Cyera's advanced AI-driven platform, enabling organizations to gain greater visibility into their data environments, improve compliance, and proactively address security risks across cloud, SaaS, and on-premises systems.

"We are thrilled to partner with Cyera and integrate their industry-leading AI-powered data security platform into our established cybersecurity practice," said Joe Ryan, Senior Director of Global Sales Operations at The Cervantes Group. "Data is the fastest-growing attack surface in the world, and adding Cyera perfectly complements our existing services to help clients detect, prevent, protect against, and remediate sophisticated cyber threats. As one of the fastest-growing data security companies, Cyera enables organizations to discover their data footprints, control usage, and rapidly mitigate risk.

What sets Cyera apart is its agentless deployment in just five minutes across any environment, combined with an AI-powered classification engine that delivers 95% accuracy out of the box. This partnership gives security leaders the visibility and confidence they need to safely leverage their data while driving business growth."

Cyera's platform allows organizations to automatically discover and classify sensitive data, reduce exposure, and respond to risks in real time without adding operational complexity. Together, the partnership delivers practical, scalable, and results-driven solutions that help organizations stay ahead of evolving cyber threats while supporting long-term growth and operational resilience.
